top of the world

This October, join us on a unique tour to Spiti, a land ever so enchanting and mesmerising. A dream route for all mountain enthusiasts, this trip promises to be an experience you will remember for years to come. Meet like-minded individuals and have fun along the way, in an itinerary customised exclusively according to your needs. We have travelled on this route several times and we promise to share all that we have seen and learnt along the way. An immersive experience awaits you!

experience the culture.

PLEASE DO NOT BOOK WITH US if you think this is just another trip where you give in to worldly pleasures. We do not encourage such activities on our trips including mindless drinking, smoking, dancing or relaxing like the world's going to end tomorrow. We believe in creating impact wherever we go. Our handcrafted activities makes sure that you give back to society, to make it better than before. Remember the travellers of past, who wandered this land thousands of years ago, reading and writing about cultures, helping people, contributing to the local habitats. We travel like that.

who is invited?

We intend to develop a collective of individuals who want to initiate thought-backed positive actions towards communities that need significant support to rise. This positive action does not necessarily mean building reliance upon temporary supply of resources. This is all about working together to build sustainable models which help them in longer run to become self-sufficient. For the same, we invite thinkers, writers, researchers, intellectuals from different domains who can carefully curate ideas that can change the world.

what are we going to do?

Our trips are meant to bring together a group of individuals who will travel to gather information, understand the root causes of different issues faced by the local communities and suggest courses of action to bring in the much-needed transformation in these areas. At the end of our trip, we will organise an open-house session to discuss, analyse our perspectives and collectively work on bringing in the change through our joint efforts.
